HRVATSKA KAO VINSKA ZEMLJA,

Hrvatsko Jadransko more poveznica je mediteranskog mora sa srcem Europe. Uza najljepšu obalu i otoke Sredozemlja tople struje duž Hrvatske obale od Dubrovnika, Splita, Šibenika, Zadra, Rijeke do Istre, sobom nose mediteranski klimatski utjecaj duboko u kontinentalne predjele središnje i istočne Panonske Hrvatske.

Povijest širenja uzgoja vinove loze Mediteranom potječe još od vremena Rimskog carstva gdje pripadaju i naši današnji prostori. Hrvatska tako i danas čini jedno od najvrjednijih svjetskih područja za uzgoj vinove loze. Sa četiri različitih mikroklimatskih vinogradarskih zona i brojnim autohtonim vrstama vinove loze Hrvatska je među rijetkim zemljama u kojima se danas uzgajaju i brojni svjetski poznate vrste vinove loze.

Revitalizirana moderna vinska proizvodnja u proteklih 30. godina učinila je danas hrvatsku jednom od najperspektivnijih svjetskih vinskih mikro regija. Bogatstvo autohtonih vrsta vinove loze u svim regijama i preko 2.500 malih obiteljskih vinarija danas čine veliko bogatstvo u ponudi vina pa sa pravom možemo reći da je hrvatska danas prava mala draguljarnica svjetske vinske scene.

Zbog ukupno relativno male produkcije vina ista se jednako tako malo izvoze pa većinu tih vrijednih ali i rijetkih vina možete uživati samo za vrijeme Vašeg boravka u hrvatskoj.

CROATIA AS WINE COUNTRY,

The Croatian Adriatic sea is the link between the Mediterranean sea and the heart of Europe. Along the most beautiful coast and Mediterranean islands of the warm currents along the Croatian coast from Dubrovnik, Split, Šibenik, Zadar, Rijeka to Istria, the Mediterranean climate influence deep into the continental landscapes of Central and Eastern Pannonian Croatia.

The history of spreading grape in Mediterranean origin dates back to the time of the Roman Empire and belongs to our present premises. Today, Croatia is one of the world's most valuable wine-growing areas. With four different microclimate vineyard zones and numerous autochthonous grape varieties, Croatia is one of the rare countries in which has already grown numerous of world-famous grape varieties.

New, revitalized modern wine production in the past 30 years has made Croatia one of the most promising world wine regions today. The richness of various grape varieties in all of our wine regions and over 2,500 small family wineries today make a great deal of wine selection and we can rightly conclude that Croatia is a small jewel of the world wine scene.

Because of the relatively small production of wine, only a small bit is exported, so most of these valuable but rare wines can only be enjoyed during your stay in Croatia.
